

Legal Shots

Probationary period and long-term unemployed or first-time job seekers

Probationary period for some employees is now reduced or eliminated.

The probationary period regime for the long-term unemployed or first-time job seekers has been changed.

For these employees, probationary period is reduced or eliminated, depending on whether their previous fixed-term employment contract, with a different employer, has lasted for 90 days or more.

Meet our Team:

