

Legal Shots

New Competence of the Labour Inspectorate

Evidence of unlawful dismissal gives rise to official report and regularisation notice.

If the labour inspector finds evidence that a dismissal initiated by the employer is unlawful, based on political, ideological, ethnic or religious grounds, breach of legal procedure, amongst others, the labour inspector draws up an official report and notifies the company to regularise the situation.

Meet our Team:

